

A Tradition Of Service To The Deaf And Hard Of Hearing Communities

Please Support Lexington School/Center for the Deaf

While government funds cover the core costs of our programs, many vitally needed services for deaf youth, adults and families depend on private donations. Here's how your contribution can help:

- Infants and young children with developmental disabilities are helped to learn and grow through the Early Intervention Program at Lexington. The state covers only part of the costs of this program. Without outside support, we cannot meet the needs of all the families who come to us for help.
- Student trips to cultural sites, performing arts, summer camps, and leadership development programs are not supported by government funds. With your help, we can provide these important opportunities for our students.
- Today's hearing aids and assistive devices are the most advanced and effective ever available --but they are also expensive. Your contribution will help subsidize the cost of state-of-the-art hearing aids for children, seniors, and others in need.
- Deaf adults need skilled counseling to present themselves effectively in the job market. This basic element of our vocational services is dependent on private support.
